Door prizes, dancing and skating prizes and also a King and Queen will be chosen every week at the record hop. The cafeteria at the lodge is also open for the hungry teenagers.

Over 600 people attended the area Sunday.

COUNTRY FLAVOR

INSULATED UNDERWEAR

It is heartening to know that long ones are regaining lost ground and that scientific know-how is concentrating on comfort as well as style.

Time was when citizens of both sexes and all ages put them on the first of October and wore blue, red or gray insulation until April's tantrums were over. On a zeroish winter night, a union suit, a long flannel nightgown, a feather bed and plenty of quilts meant a man could enjoy his daily period of unconsciousness.

In the 1880 days of sleighs, punks and buffalo robes, a countryman had his choice of shirts and drawers or a one-piece affair, but gradually the demand for union suits superseded the tandem hitch.

By 1890, the logic of one-piece protection was proved. As the mail order catalog said, "The greatly increased demand for union suits is due to their merit as a practical garment." They did not roll up a man's back and the "drawers" did not slip to an uncomfortable position.

Now we read of the application of scientific knowledge to this basic idea and insulated underwear is available. We are re-discovering the joys of winter sports; we are recognizing that comfort can be combined with style.

It is a pleasant augury of a better future. If we are ready to acknowledge we don't need battleship-size cars, perhaps the nation is ready to settle down and appreciate some of the simpler satisfactions of life instead of clamoring for the blatant, boisterous and superficial.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR...

Bethel, Maine
January 28, 1961

Dear Mr. Editor:

In this last week's paper are four letters, all of which have one thing in common, and could have been written by any number of people; each one shows the overflow of rebellion against the pressures of today.

And you, Mr. Editor, seem to have come in for your share of "pressure" even though reason tells us the "Letters to the Editor" do not necessarily express his opinion; and to take time to examine the accuracy of all statements would leave little time for the business of publishing a newspaper!

We should be thankful that our Freedoms allow us to express our feelings publicly, without fear, regardless of which side of the fence we happen to be on.

First, we had the letter from a man in a public position: By his very act of accepting an office, he has placed himself in the position of the man in the Carnival whose head is the target for baseballs—regardless of the accuracy of the aim.

Second: here is the teacher, conscientious in her efforts to teach too many pupils too many subjects in a time when the demand seems to be "Keep up with the Russians." I hope we don't "catch up with them" because some of my children just might not be able to keep up with the STANDARD, and so become conscripted for slave labor.

Third: the mother who is willing to admit that her indignation may have carried her a little beyond reality—but still carrying the burden of activities outside the home, which a generation ago was unheard of. If a mother cannot find time to visit school, or refuses to assume outside responsibilities, she may be called a non-civic minded person. Who but she has the knowledge of how much time away-from-home she can spend? After all, a mother's first responsibility is in her home.

Fourth, the voice of the teenager crying, so to speak, in the wilderness: "Keep me busy so I won't get into trouble!"

The fact is that his bedtime comes earlier than his older brother's; the boy knows his teenage brother may drive the car.

But the teenager has an adolescent head on an adult body, and unless we supply him with a solid set of standards to follow, he's on pretty insecure ground. All too often he is confronted with a double set of these same so-called standards. Even adults may be confused by the difference between mature age and mature judgment.

Where is the answer?

Surely, not in calling the other fellow a knave.

Is it possible we are too well organized?

The neighborhood gang used to gather in the old pasture or vacant lot for a rough and ready game of ball. Maybe somebody went home with a bloody nose, but the situation usually was pretty well in hand. And nobody's mother was there to yell, "Toss him out of the game, the bum!"

The Oxford County Citizen
Bethel, Maine

It is with some trepidation that I join "Rebel Mother," "Mrs. Doris Lord," "Charlene Rice," "Ken Brooks," "Teen-Ager" et al in the controversy currently raging, letter-wise, in your esteemed columns. To begin with please permit me to introduce myself. I have been a life-long resident of New York City far removed from Bethel. However, I bought a summer home in the Bethel Area in 1956 and now happily spend at least three months a year in and near Songo Pond. The dreary winter months are bearable only because I know that summer must follow; and summer in all its beauty is synonymous with Bethel. When Bethel is wounded I bleed. Accordingly I fervently hope that all the participants will forgive this rude intrusion.

The problems posed by "Rebel Mother" and "Teen-Ager" are really closely allied. They belong as they appeared, side by side, in the same issue of the same newspaper. Furthermore, the problems are universal. In our country every community from Maine to Alaska to California to Hawaii is beset by them. I dare say that they are common to communal living in every civilized community in the world.

In our own communities there has been a sudden and rude awakening to the fact that in the recent past our educational offerings have been too modest and too soft. Eminent educators (Dr. Conant of Harvard, in the forefront among them) have pinpointed the weaknesses. In our frantic efforts to give our children "better than we had," we have insulated them from the hardships that acquiring a worthy education entail. The future belongs to the educated child. In a world that is moving at a breathless pace, mastery of the three "R's" is woefully inadequate. Children must be taught to master their tasks by a reasonable amount of work done inside and outside the classroom. There must of course be time for suitable recreation, but there must also be time for the mastery of the ever growing body of knowledge, which the youth of today must acquire, if he is to become a worthy and functioning member of his society.

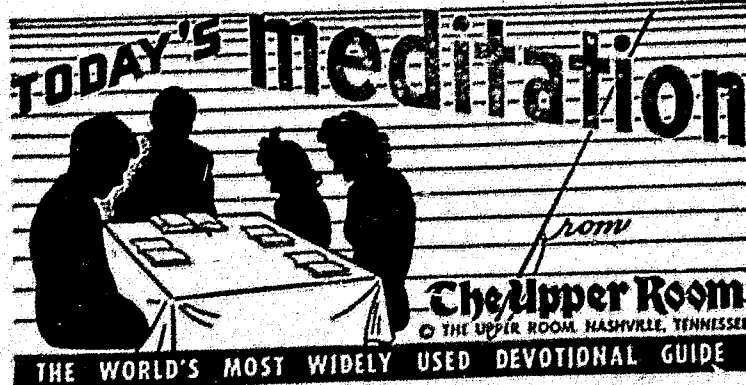

Dear "Rebel Mother" introduce your children to the great world of books, that exists outside the school texts, whet their appetite for knowledge of the great universal mysteries that surround us, the heavens, the no Little League meeting to attend. In the winter, sliding and skating was enjoyed just as now. But on Sunday morning the whole family was in church. There were no Ski Meets that had to be attended.

By this I do not mean that some changes are not desirable. The question is: How much should we change and how much should we retain?

There was then, and is now, an answer. It takes a little seeking, a little teaching, a little preaching.

Sincerely,
A Mother

Thursday, February 2
Read Romans 8:1-6

They that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the spirit the things of the Spirit. (Romans 8:5).

Food is a basic necessity for the body. Moreover, the production, distribution, and preparation of it provide employment for a vast portion of the world's population. But meat and bread are not to have priority in our concern.

The Master's counsel that man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceeds out of the mouth of God, needs reaffirmation in our day by each of us. Let us look about our homes to see where we are putting emphasis. Are we putting it on the material or on the spiritual?

We do well to keep in mind that our standard of attainment is set by God, not by man. We reach it not by measuring ourselves by ourselves, but only by bringing our desires into conformity with God's will.

God has expressed this will through His son, our Lord, and constantly reminds us of it through whisperings of the Holy Spirit.

PRAYER: Grant, O God our Father, that we may be motivated by the mind of Christ. Discontent us with that which is small and base—out of character for us. Help us in our outreach and up-reach to partake of Thy divine nature; through Christ our Lord. Amen.

But Where to Move?

forest, the fields, the oceans and streams, the great religious leaders and their teachings, music, the arts, and the myriad of interests common to man through the ages. Don't worry about the time spent. It will pay enormous dividends in the end. Preparation for life is a stern task. It cannot be accomplished in an atmosphere of softness and complacency. In the long years ahead your children will remember you more affectionately and appreciatively. The problem is to develop an enthusiasm for education outside the classroom, rather than to stifle it. Fortunately the child whose curiosity about his world leads him into avenues of exploration and study—fortunate too are his parents.

The problems of "Teen-Ager" afflict his fellow teenagers throughout the world. The teenager who merely bemoans his "sad fate" and does nothing about it is hardly worth his salt. Why not apply the imaginative process with which humans are blessed? Before I embark on this epistolary effort, I made inquiry among several teenagers in New York City about their activities during the week end of Jan. 28, 29, 1961. These activities follow.

Perhaps you will get some ideas. 1. Skiing and ice skating. 2. Hobbies in conjunction with other teenagers (stamp collecting, painting, sewing, etc.). 3. Snow removal for pocket money. 4. Part time work in neighborhood hospitals to aid the sick. 5. House parties. 6. Movies and the theater. 7. School dances. 8. Library. 9. Hiking. 10. School assignment—research. 11. Scouting (Scout leaders for younger members). 12. Bowling. 13. Sports (hockey, basketball, volleyball, tennis, table tennis, etc.). 14. Church activities.

There must be a score of other related activities. Many of these are available in Bethel. By all means let Odeon Hall rock on occasion. But dear teenager don't let your world rise and fall on that "rock" or

But why dost thou judge thy brother? Or why dost thou set at naught thy brother? For we shall all stand before the judgment seat of Christ.—(Romans 14:10)

The people we work with, those who ride the bus with us—let us look upon them with eyes of love and understanding and brotherhood, remembering in our deepest heart the wondrous words of St. Paul.

"roll." Team up with other teenagers. Use your imagination. Plan wholesome activities in advance. Seek the advice of your elders. I have never met Ken Brooks, but he seems to be the person who can guide you. Your surroundings offer a world of health and imaginative activities. Why brood? Why not consult with your friends and plan pleasant week ends? There are millions of teenagers in America who live in communities without the advantages that your community has. They thrive and are happy. Use your energies and imagination. You'll achieve contentment also.

Now you know Mr. Editor why I would be lost without my weekly copy of the "Citizen." My heart to all my friends in Bethel.

Sincerely yours,
Mark E. Cymrot

SHORT TAKES

"When men first came out of caves to organize into communities, they created for themselves a dangerous instrument, as well as a social benefit. They created the problem of how to have enough government to maintain peace and order—yet prevent the growth of government power to a point where it endangers personal liberty."—The BEA, publication of The Bailey Company, Amesbury.

"A year ago, everybody was greeting the 'surging 60's.' To put it bluntly, the surging has been pretty hard to find this year. It does seem, however, that 1961 will at least equal 1960 from a business standpoint, and even though 1960 failed to surge, it's been a satisfactory year. We are all a year older, and a year smarter."—E. O. Vetter, Division Manager, Metals & Controls Division, Alltboro.

"Businesses are people. Man-made laws can't squeeze much more wealth out of an already overburdened industry without squeezing security out of that industry's jobs. Discriminatory taxes, policies aimed at increasing wages or benefits without a matching increase in productivity, don't actually help the worker. They tie his hands to an idle machine."—Chase Centaur, publication of Chase Brass & Copper Company, Waltham.

"Technicalities aside, the over-riding fact is: wages are paid by customers and not by owners. Unions are actually bargaining not about the owner's ability to pay, but about the customer's ability and willingness to pay. The customer can pay us, or a domestic competitor, or a foreign competitor, or the producer of a substitute product. Or the customer may simply decide to do without. It is his choice, and no one else's."—Robert Paxton, President, General Electric Company.

Italy, Texas, News-Herald: "...Too many of our high school graduates go on to college with no idea about what they want to make of themselves. Some go because it is the thing to do; others because they can get a few more years of loafing at the expense of their parents. As a result, many of them come out with a degree that has no meaning, yet they expect it to open the door to a high-salaried job."

The State Police remind us that school buses are now regularly carrying their precious cargo of youngsters to and from school. They remind us, furthermore, that Maine law requires that a driver shall, upon meeting or overtaking a stopped school bus which is taking on or discharging passengers, bring his car to a complete stop and remain stopped until signalled by the bus operator to proceed or until the bus resumes motion.

The wretched have no compassion.—Samuel Johnson.

GOULD ACADEMY

Goald Takes St. Patrick's 50-48 In a real thriller Goald Academy took St. Patrick's High of Berlin here last Tuesday by a 50 to 48 score. Paul Hamilton, with a hot hand, led the Academy five with a 24 point outburst. Goald took a commanding lead of 19-6 in the first period but the New Hampshire visitors came back strong to lead in the third period. The lead changing hands with each basket kept the fans on edge. Goald gathered an 8 point lead early in the last period but had all they could do to hang on as St. Patrick's crept to within one basket with only seconds to go. The Goald JV's had easy going in the preliminary with a 65 to 15 victory.

Mexico will be at Goald on Friday. On Saturday Goald will travel to Fryeburg for a 2 p. m. make up game.

Future Homemakers of America

On January 26th the regular meeting of the FHA Chapter at Goald Academy was held. Three special guests attended our meeting, each speaking on the way home economics had had a part in their work.

Mrs. Estelle Goggin, dietitian and housemother at Goald, attended the Fanny Farmer Cooking School in Boston. She spoke about planning menus and buying food for the boarding department and about some of her experiences in camp work.

Mrs. Clifford Hillier, having majored in foods and nutrition at the University of Maine, is now a local clothing leader in Extension. Formerly she was a home economics teacher.

Mrs. Rachel MacKay, having had training in home economics at Goald Academy, is also a clothing leader in Extension. She has also been a Brownie Scout and 4-H leader.

They all felt that home economics has helped them in their careers as homemakers and professional workers, and has provided them with immeasurable satisfaction.

At the close of the meeting the guests asked members of FHA about the club and how we conduct our meetings.

The Chapter is in the process of learning about various fields in home economics and is conducting a pilot study.

Goald Skiers Show Well in Sunday River Giant Slalom

Goald Academy skiers came through in fine fashion in the individual competition of the Giant Slalom Race. The only first place Goald skiers did not capture was first place in Girls' Class II won by Joan Bass of Kent's Hill. Langley's time was 60.0 seconds flat, Corriveau's 62.6 second, and Ann Ordway's 66.6.

The car may be repaired but this small victim will never be the same. All because some driver gambled with speed limits, cheated a stop sign or ignored road markings. Most accidents can be traced to such law violations. Each day they injure, cripple and kill thousands. Help end this frightful toll. Drive carefully. Obey the law. Insist that others do, too. Where traffic laws are strictly obeyed, accidents go down!

FACE THIS FACT

Drivers are the No. 1 cause of traffic accidents which last year injured 1,400,000 and killed 38,000. This year an increase is threatened. How long must this go on? YOU can supply the answer!

HISTORICAL HORSEPLAY: A leading attraction in the 17th century town of St. George, in Bermuda, is King's Square with its stocks and pillory and costumed town crier. Visitors are invariably delighted to have their pictures taken in the pillory, a device once used for publicly punishing offenders. The dog—as witness his expression—has grown weary of all the hoopla. The town of St. George, founded in 1612, was once the capital of the mid-Atlantic British colony. In 1815, the government moved to Hamilton, the island's largest city. FNS

DR. ARTHUR L. WALTERS

Dr. Arthur L. Walters of Bethel and Miami Beach, Fla., trustee of Boston's Pratt Clinic-New England Center Hospital and The Bingham Associates Fund died Thursday, Jan. 26, in Miami Beach at the age of 77.

Born in Battleground, Ind., in 1884, Dr. Walters was graduated from Johns Hopkins Medical School in 1912 and was a specialist in internal medicine.

Dr. Walters was vice-president of the board of trustees of Gould Academy and was much interested in all Academy affairs. He was in charge of the Bingham philanthropies which aided in the college education of many young men and women.

As a member of the medical staff of the Eli Lilly Pharmaceutical Company, he was active in the development and introduction of insulin for the treatment of diabetes in the early 1920's. In 1924 he helped establish the St. Francis Hospital in Miami Beach, Fla., and became its first physician-in-chief.

As the physician and a personal friend of the late William Bingham, 2nd, of Bethel, Dr. Walters became interested in an active counselor in Mr. Bingham's medical philanthropies. One of these was The Bingham Associates Fund, which was established in 1932 for the advancement of medicine. Its program in the State of Maine has become the model for regional medicine in other parts of the country and the world. He was one of the original trustees of the Fund. When Mr. Bingham helped establish the Pratt Diagnostic Clinic in 1938 as the center for the Fund's medical program, Dr. Walters' advice and counsel were most helpful. When the hospital was expanded and became the Pratt Clinic-New England Center Hospital in 1943, Dr. Walters was named one of the charter trustees. He held both trusteeships until his death.

The funeral was held in Miami Beach, on Saturday, Jan. 28.
